

SMART Goals for Healthy Weight

Research shows that goals for weight loss or other healthy change should be SMART - Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, and Time-Based.

Patients and providers can work together to set weight loss goals.

SMART Goal Criteria	Example	Your Goal
S pecific: What do you plan to do? When will you do it? How often?	I plan to drink no other beverages besides water and black coffee on at least four of the next seven days.
M easurable: How will you track your progress?	Each day that I achieve my goal, I will circle the date on my calendar before going to bed.
A chievable: Is this goal realistic? If not, what is more realistic?	This goal seems realistic and I believe that I can achieve it.
R elevant: Why is it important for you to achieve this goal?	Achieving this goal can help me lose weight and improve my health, which are important to me.
T ime-based: How many weeks or months will you work on this goal?	I plan to work on this goal for the next seven days.

DO

- ✓ Eat a protein-rich breakfast as the biggest meal of the day.
Eat within 30 minutes of waking up.
- ✓ Drink water as your main beverage.
One cup of coffee or tea without anything added is also okay before noon each day. Drink no other beverages.
- ✓ Stop all food intake at 7 p.m.
It's okay to drink water anytime day or night.
- ✓ Get daily physical activity.
Move continuously for at least 30 minutes at an intensity level of moderate or higher.

DON'T

- ✗ Don't eat highly processed foods.
Avoid sugary cereals, pastries, fast food, or other junk food.
- ✗ Don't drink sugary drinks.
Avoid soda, juice, sports drinks, and alcoholic beverages.
- ✗ Don't forget to plan your meals in advance.
Finish eating by 7 p.m.
- ✗ Don't skip days of exercise.
It only makes it harder to get back to a physical activity routine.
